
What I Overheard on My Way Home

See, I told you,
It's all the same.
Must you keep ignoring our bane?

*Oh, come on,
It's not so bad.
Get through this and we'll again be glad.*

You don't understand,
You're a disc on a record.
Away with you, bring in the liquor.

*You go too far!
Do you not seek clarity?
We will go nowhere without solidarity.*

Look at his mind,
It can't take much more.
The advice you're giving is making it worse.

*There's no other way,
What you seek is vengeance.
There is no one to blame; the answer is patience.*

Just turn him loose!

I won't allow that abuse!
Can't you see that you're inviting the noose?!

You two are quite rowdy,
I wish you both had a switch.
The world is already cloudy,
Must you give me an itch?

I can still see the road,
But my headlights grow dimmer.
With this thousand-pound load,
Hope is but a glimmer.

Now shut up for a while,
Home is just around the corner.
They must not join my trial;
My inner disorder.
